NOT A MAN IN TOWN COULD BLOW UP TO BEVEN POUNDS.

Pap Perkins, the Postmaster of Jerscho, Tells About the Meeting Which Discussed the Advisability of Starting & Brass Band.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.] Look here, pap," said Squar Johnson as he dropped into the postoffice one day when was alone; "I've got a scheme on hand that'll do more to boost the town of Jericho to the top of the ladder than 40 miles of new side-walk. Yes, st. it's a boomer, and if it's carried out you'll see the price of real estate jump 50 per cent."

He waited for me to git my breath and then lowered his voice and continued:

"Pap, I've tot a notice writter out fur all patricic citizens of Jericho to assemble at the postoffice this evenin, and I'll post her up on the door. I want to spring it on 'em all of a sudden: I want to see 'em turn pale and their hair stand up. Jest say to all inquirers, pap, mat Jericho is comin right to the front like a steer goin fur a cornfield."

I wanted know what the scheme was, but the quar winked and nodded and looked inysterious and went off without girin his secret away. There was a great deal of curiosity durin the day. Some thought the squar had a balloon astension in view in order to attract public attention to our new cooper shap, and others had it that he the statue of Liberty and sell it fur old had found a way to dodge the state tax, but is was all guesswork. There was a t emendous crowd on hand when everin came, and the squar went around rubbin his hands together and smilin all over his face. When he had got the clowd worked up to the pitch where everybody wanted to die fur thin." liberty, he called the meetin to order and said "Feller freemen of Jericho, we hev here a be utiful town, a salubrious climate and a populashun to be proud of.

"By John, but he's made a p'int!" said Descon Spooner as he whacked on the counter with his cane. "Yes, sir, Jericho needs a brass band to boost her, and I'm with the squar. Let us at Moses Hopkins has to say

"As take it," said Moses, "a brass band p ays tunes, and I'd like to know in advance what sort of tunes this goin to play. If it's goin to play "the Sweet By and By,' then I'm in fur a band. If it's goin to play hididdle fiddle tunes, then I'm ag'in it." "That's a p'int as fur as it goes," said acon, "but it don't go fur 'nuff. Williams, you was in the hog buyin bizness fur 20 years, and you ought to know about brass bands. What'd'you think of the idea?" "That depends," said Enos. "I don't go much on a brass band that toots its wind all over town and wastes it on the ar. If we had a band that would come lown to the depot to meet me as I come in from Tarrytown, I think I'd kind of like it." John, but he's right, and he's made a p'int!" shouted the deacon. "I don't see the p'int," said Squar Johnson as he colored up. "Why should our leass band go down to the depot to welcome a man who hain't never done ing in particular fur Jericho? is a good 'nuff man in his way, Eno id the outside world ever hear of Was he consulted about buildin him new sewer or paintin the town the Has he ever laid awake nights hall thinkin how this town could be boosted

Mrs. C. A. Merrill, of Chetopa, Kans., suffered from a peculiar nervous trouble which baffled the skill of leading specialists. She says: "I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Miles' Nervine. "I can't exactly say till I know what the band is goin to do," replied Jabez. 'My old woman is mighty fond of brass band tunes which lift up the my house three times a week and give us sunthin lively I'll chip in."

"Mebbe I'm mistaken in this crow said the squar as he looked around in a serious way. "Mebbe this is a crowd composed of freeborn Americans whose forefathers fought at Bunker Hill, and mebbe it's made up of men who'd steal junk. To say that I am astonished does not half express my feelin's."

"That sellin the statue of Liberty is a p'int, and a strong one," said the deacon, "but what we want is a free expreshun of opinion. Jube Hornbecker looks as if he wanted to say sun-

"I'd like to ask the squar," said Jube in his humble way, "if he expects that band to meet him at the depot when he comes home?"

"Bein I hold the posishun I do," answered the squar, "bein I'm referred to as the leadin man in Jericho, if the band wanted to go down and see me off or wanted to be there to welcome me home I don't reckon anybody would find fault."

"There may be a p'int," said the deacon as he scratched his ear, "but I don't skassly see it. Mebbe the squar wants to say sunthin further about liberty and Bunker Hill?"

"I'm sayin," replied the squar as he heaved a long sigh, "that patriotism and love of country seems to be deader'n a doornail in these United States. Mebbe there's a man in this crowd aside from me who'd be willin to shed his blood that our glorious republic might be saved from ruin and desolashun, but if thar be I can't name him. You might as well disperse to your homes and tell your wives and children that Jericho is tloomed."

"By John, but what a p'int-what a p'int!" whispered the deacon. "Before we bust up and go to ruin, however, I'd like to hear from Reuben White. Reuben's bin as far west as Detroit, and he ought to know what influence a brass band has on a town."

"The influence of a brass band is accordin to the leader," said Reuben. "I've seen 'em where they jumped a town right to the front in four weeks. and I've seen 'em where they killed things dead in two. The leader wants to be a pecooliar sort of a man. He wants to be born fur the place, same as Washington was. He wants to be ready to die at two minits' notice or to live fur a hundred years."

"And mebbe you think you're that man?" queried the squar as he pounded on the counter with his fist. "I do. I know I am. I'm the only man in Jericho as kin lead a band to success and make the town hump herself. I'm a self sacrificin critter, as you all know, and if this meetin thinks

"There's more p'ints bobbin up here than you kin shake a stick at, but we might as well hev one more. S'posin we hear from Lish Billings. He's the only man in Jericho who kin play on an accordion. What d'you say, Lish?"

"There's mighty little to be said and nuthin to bust up the country," answered Lish. "Do any of you sons of Bunker Hill know how much wind it takes to blow a brass horn?"

Nobody did, and a hush fell upon the crowd.

"It takes ten pounds, reckoned by a lung tester," said Lish, "and you'd want an extra pound fur walkin up hill. There was a lung tester man in town two weeks ago, and every son of us handed over a nickel and took a blow. We blowed and strained and blowed, and Rube White was one of 'em who blowed a sole off his boot, and yit no man reached seven pounds. Whar you goin to git your wind to blow then, horns?"

There was a painful silence while you could count a hundred, and then Deacon Spooner said:

Playtime In the Senate.

Senator Butler once had a bill appropriating $5,000 to build a monument on the Moore's Creek battlefield, North Carolina, which was an especial object of Senator Wolcott's fun.

"Can the senator tell me the date of the battle?" he asked Mr. Butler. "It was the first battle of the Revolution, 29 days before the battle of Curious Mexican Laws.

They have some very curious criminal laws in Mexico. For instance, it is twice as much of an offense to mutilate the face of a woman as that of a man. The law seems to be based on the idea that a woman's best possession is her beauty and that to mar it does her a great injury.

There is another curious law. If a person should be wounded in an encounter, the punishment to the offender is fixed by the number of days his victim has to stay in the hospital or under a doctor's care. A line is fixed at 40 days in the way of a general division. If the injured man occupies more than 40 days in his recovery, the penalty doubles up.

An Impudent Fraud. An impudent fraud was perpetrated upon a Manchester bank by one of its customers, who opened an account with some few hundreds of pounds. The man, after a few weeks, drew two cheeks, each within a pound or so of his balance, and, selecting a busy day, presented himself at one end of the counter, while an accomplice, when he passed to his wife.—Cassell's Saturday saw that his friend's check had been cashed, immediately presented his own to a cashier at the other end. Both cashiers referred the checks to the ledger clerk, who, thinking the same cashier had asked him twice, said "right" to both checks. The thieves were never caught.

Nye's Introduction.

When James Whitcomb Riley and Bill Nye traveled together giving a joint entertainment, the humorist had great fun with the poet. Once, in introducing Riley and himself to an audience, Nye remarked, "I will appear first and speak until I get tired, then Mr. Riley will succeed me and read from his own works until you get

In some cases the external signs of Contagious Blood Poison are so slight that the victim is firmly within the grasp of the monster before the true nature of the disease is known. In other cases the blood is quickly filled with this poisonous virus and the swollen glands, mucus patches in the mouth, sores on scalp, ulcers on tongue, sore throat, eruptions on skin, copper colored splotches, and falling hair and evebrows leave no room for doubt, as these are all unmistakable signs of Contagious Blood Poison.

Doctors still prescribe mercury and potash as the only cure for Blood Poison. These poisonous minerals never yet made a complete and permanent cure of Contagious Blood Poison. They drive the disease back into the system, cover it up for a while, but it breaks out again in worse form. These powerful minerals produce mercur rheumatism and the most offensive sores and ulcers, causing the joints to stiffen and finger nails to drop off. Moroury a potash make wrecks, not cures, and those who have been dosed with these drugs are never after free from aches and particularly the street of the system.

S. S. S. acts in an entirely different manner, being a purely vegetable remedy; it forces the poison out of the system, instead of tearing down, builds up and invigorates the general health. S. S. S. is the paly antidote for this specific virus therefore the only cure for Contagious Blood Poison. No matter in what stage or how hopeless the case may appear, though pronounced incurable by the doctors, S. S. S. can be relied upon to make a rapid, permanent cure. S. S. S. is not new, untried remedy; an experience of nearly fifty years has proven it a sure and unfailing cure for this disease. It is only purely vegetable blood medicine known

Mr. H. L. Myers, 100 Mulberry St., Newark, N. J. says: "I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots at first, but afterware apread all over my body. Cockatoo Can Do. A light chain securely fastened on the cockatoo's leg promised safety, but he contrived to get within reach of my new curtains and rapidly devoured some half yard or so of a hand painted border, which was the pride of my heart. Then came an interval of calm and exemplary behavior which lulled me into a false security. Cockie seemedto have but one object in life, which was to pull out all his own feathers, and by evening the dining room often looked as though a white fowl had been plucked in it. I consulted a bird doctor, but as Cockie's health was perfectly good and his diet all that could be recommended, it was supposed he only plucked himself for want of occupation, and firewood with the Constitution of 1885, of the State was recommended as a substitute.

This answered very well, and he spent his leisure in gnawing sticks of deal—only when no one chanced to be in the one can be in the one can be in the one can be in the office.

Nailed shoes were not known by the Greeks, for Xenophon gives minute instructions for hardening the hoof. Nor did the Romans use them. Nero had mules shod with a plate of silver fastened by crossed thought to the hoof. With hoppæa, his later wife, it is said these plates were of gold.
